Miners:

Tracing coal miner ancestors is a common problem. The Durham Mining Museum site has plenty of information about mines in the coalfields of North Eastern England as well as links to colliery information elsewhere.

Place finders and Map sources

To trace old villages, hamlets and even parishes which are difficult to find, possibly because they have been swallowed up by urban sprawl, try these parish location programs:

ParLoc (Parish Locator) www.parloc.pwp.blueyonder.co.uk

Parfind (Parish Finder) web.onetel.net.uk/~gdlawson/parfind.htm

Parfind is also available on-line at: www.genuki.org.uk:8080/big/churchdb/

Use old gazetteers such as Lewis's (available on CD - in the NZSG library at Panmure). Other gazetteers are available on the Web. Another option is to visit sites that deal with old maps.
